

NESC

Media Contact: Diana Blass
National Executive Service Corps
212-269-1234 ext. 116
Dblass@nesc.org

For Immediate Release:

DEBORAH BOWEN BRENNAN APPOINTED REGIONAL DIRECTOR FOR THE NATIONAL EXECUTIVE SERVICE CORPS

--- NESC Offers Unparalleled Executive Expertise and Consultancy to Nonprofit Organizations --

New York, NY – July 20, 2010 -- The National Executive Service Corps is pleased to announce that Deborah Bowen Brennan of Darien, CT will join NESC as the nonprofit's Regional Director for Southwest Connecticut, effective immediately. As Regional Director Ms. Brennan will oversee all aspects of NESC's management consulting business in the Region.

Ms. Brennan is succeeding Laura Stewart of Darien and she will continue the work of maintaining an effective consulting service focused on helping the area's nonprofit organizations strengthen their management capabilities. After more than 20 years in the consumer financial services industry, Ms. Brennan hopes to utilize her extensive management, strategic planning, and problem solving skills to help nonprofits adapt and grow in today's constantly changing world.

"We are delighted to welcome Debbie Brennan to our organization," said Betsy Weber, NESC's President. She worked as a volunteer consultant for NESC in the past, and we know the high quality of her work. We've been serving Fairfield County clients for over 30 years and, with Debbie in charge, nonprofits will continue to receive the outstanding service they have come to expect from our expert volunteer corps."

NESC was founded in 1977 by Greenwich resident Frank Pace, Jr. whose vision was to develop an effective national service consulting firm focused exclusively on nonprofit institutions. In Fairfield County NESC has completed over 50 projects in the public school systems, helped numerous government entities, and worked with literally hundreds of social and human service organizations to help them deliver more efficiently and effectively on their own missions.

Ms. Brennan also offers an extensive background within the nonprofit sector, including leadership and board experience in social services, education and religious organizations.

“I am delighted to be joining NESC at a time when its services and expertise are in dire need. During these challenging economic times, nonprofit organizations are suffering due to increasing client need and decreasing government, corporate and private support,” said Ms. Brennan.

“Utilizing our consultancy services at a nominal cost can mean the difference between failing and thriving for these providers of essential security and support services in our communities”.

A nonprofit itself, NESC provides top-quality management consulting services to support other nonprofit organizations in the New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey tri-state region. NESC’s services focus on organizations in the arts, healthcare, social and human services, education, religion and government. Its core competencies include marketing and communications; strategic and business planning; organizational assessment; information technology; human resources; and budget and financial systems. In addition to management consulting, the group provides board training and development programs; executive search and executive coaching; and ongoing financial implementation. Since its establishment in 1977, over 2000 organizations have profited from NESC’s teams of consultants.

For a preliminary consultation with NESC, please contact Ms. Brennan at 203-662-1468, or e-mail dbrennan@nesc.org.